Practically complete abandonment at Davis, one of the departmental heads plans for the manufacture of commer, of the order, and several other local cial airplanes in this country was as nounced yesterday by the Curtiss plane and Motor Corporation, represents about three-fourths of entire American aircraft industry
"This step is taken," C. M. Errs vice-president and chairman of the finance committee of the company, and in the statement, "as the direct result of the failure of Congress to protect the airplane market of the United States against the invasion of British are planes, bought by a syndicate from its British Government at I per cent of their cost, for export to this country and now about to be dumped into this market."

Before July 1 the company will switch its huge Buffalo plant from the commercial airplanes it has been turning out since the armistics to other products. Of six other plants operated by the Curtiss company at the the war, only one, that at Garder will remain open after the change at the Buffalo plant. The needs of dis-tributers and replacements and space parts for Curtiss planes will be looked after there. Concerning the danger of the Union
